

2010: Now Pronounced Twenty-Ten

Welcome to 2010! It's hard to believe 2010 is here. We hope the holiday season went well and the New Year is great. Seems like working hard, setting new goals, and saving money have become the mantra. Last year was an up and down year with changes in the economy, schools, and newborns. I know during the last half of the year, many customers on Wednesday's route have had newborns. Congratulations!!!

I just wanted to take this time and say thank you for letting us serve your family. Chad & Noel Suders

Lawn Care

At most accounts we provide full service lawn maintenance. This includes mowing, edging, line trimming, spraying Round-Up, pulling weeds, blowing off and a number of other services. We would like to continue this service for many years to come and would like to go over your account. We want to ensure we are still providing the level of service you desire. Many times, we meet and go over your property when we first take over your account. Sometimes the direction and goals of your yard may change. You may want a different look. Lawn Sculptures is here to help. If you would like to go over your account, please contact us. We also provide free landscaping estimates right down to a drawing of the new landscape. We work closely with each customer to meet their preferences and needs when selecting new plants. We guide you in selecting the right plants the first time on your property by taking into consideration the available sun or shade and how much space the plants take up when first planted as well as years down the road.

Are my plants going to recover from the freeze?

The recent freeze hurt a lot of plants and lawns but may not have destroyed them. From what I have seen, the majority of landscapes will recover. The best thing to do is wait a few more weeks before trimming. If we trim the plants back they would become too exposed if another freeze occurs. All that growth acts as protection. Be sure and water the plants to encourage recovery. After February 15TH, normally it is safe to trim plants and install new landscape. Larger plants like Crape Myrtles can still be cut back.
